The Riverdale School website will be getting an upgrade in the coming months.

The Board of Education approved a contract with Virtual Towns & Schools to design a new website for the district at its Nov. 4 meeting.

Virtual Towns was recently contracted by the Borough Council to redesign the municipal website, which went live in October.

The BOE's contract with Virtual Towns will cost $4,800 to design, develop, and train staff to use the website, which is payable over three years. The district will also spend an annual fee of $1,995 for support, maintenance, and hosting upgrades.

School Superintendent Vicki Pede said the district looked at other vendors, and Virtual Towns was the most cost-effective.

"We are trying to make [the website] more accessible, and we want to try and get more information out there," said Pede.

Pede said the board is looking to have the new site unveiled by the end of the academic year.
